

CRAZE

For Gambling Has Developed

And the Swells

Of London's Smart Set are Fleeced

in the Parlors of Those of Their Own Four Hundred Circle.

the Gambling Mania Has Reached a Condition That Borders on a Scandal of Mammoth Proportions.

London, May 31.—The passion for gambling pervading the smart set in London threatens to lead to much scandal. Stories are already current of well known men in financial difficulties over gambling losses, in one case amounting, it is said, to £8,000 a single sitting.

The World exposes the universality of the craze, saying: "Every one is bent on beggaring his or her neighbor. It is the smart hostess who, regardless of all considerations of hospitality and friendship, invites guests to her house for the express purpose of winning their money. Her only aim is to get together those who will play roulette or bridge and can afford to pay up handsomely when the hour of reckoning comes. There is no less anger for the gilded youth in the country house, on his friend's yacht, in a London drawing room than on the turf or at Monte Carlo. Night after night women encourage gambling in their houses and watch contentedly the pecuniary scourging of their friends. To be at home a certain afternoon in the week has become the way of announcing to those who can play and pay that they will be at the hostess's drawing room for a private gambling saloon, and so firmly is the passion for snatching money from the pockets of others taken possession of the feminine mind, that women of position no longer hesitate to act as heaters for those who are bent on providing sport for birds and for them."

Rostand an Immortal. Paris, May 31.—The Marquis de Ségur and M. Edmund Rostand have been elected members of the academy of immortality. There was considerable opposition to M. Rostand. It recently became known that Mme. Sara Bernhardt actively canvassed in his behalf. M. Rostand, the French dramatist, is the son of Joseph Eugene Rostand, who was known as a "Poet of Marseilles," his birthplace. Edmund Rostand, who is not much over 30 came into world-wide prominence as the author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," which has brought romantic drama into fashion, and of "Vaiglon."

"QUEER" May be Used to Open "Jack Pots."

A Jury Decides it Would Not be Unlawful.

A Case in United States Court in Which a Poker Player was Charged With Shoving Counterfeit Money.

Indianapolis, May 31.—A jury in the United States circuit court returned a verdict in which it was held that it is no violation of law to use a counterfeit coin in opening a "jack pot" in a poker game. The case was that of Jesse Page of Elmore, who was charged with passing a counterfeit dollar while he had his feet under a poker table. A "jack pot" was the object for which the players were striving. Page "broke the pot" for a dollar and tossed the coin on the table with the chips that were already there. The pot was raked in by a man who was a witness for the government in the case.

WARM

Shot Fired at Mr. Tillman.

Too Late Now,

Says McLaurin of the Joint Debate,

To Consider Whether the Move was a Wise or an Unwise One.

Indignant Denial of the Charge That McLaurin Has Been Acting in Collusion With the Republicans.

Charleston, S. C., May 31.—Interest in the controversy between Senators Tillman and McLaurin was given a new zest by a prepared statement just issued by Senator McLaurin defining his position. He begins by saying that the recent address to the people by Senator Tillman makes it necessary that he say something in explanation of his motives and actions, and that "had it not been for Senator Tillman's intrusion upon the Gaffney meeting there would have been no necessity for it. A joint debate was precipitated by him contrary to my wishes and of the men who invited me."

He continues: "It is too late now to consider whether it was wise or unwise, and the people must judge between us. I desire to announce my candidacy in opposition to the senior senator for the unexpired long term, and I will discuss with him in a fair and reputable manner the national issues of the day and leave it to you to judge who can more honestly and honorably represent you in the United States senate. In 1897 I was elected to the senate as a Democrat and I am still a Democrat."

Senator McLaurin says that his recent Greenville speech gave the people the reason for his official action since 1899, but that the address of Senator Tillman makes it necessary for him to say he is a Democrat, and continues: "The senior senator charges that I am a Republican and was organizing a Republican party here. If he believed this charge why did he consent to run with me in a Democratic primary? I denounce the charge as an infamous falsehood and the senior senator knows what he says is untrue. He charges that the dispensing of the public patronage has been placed at my disposal and unlimited money is furnished me by Republicans to aid in the scheme of a new party. I denounce this as a malicious falsehood. The people shall judge of our Democracy and not the senior senator. The senior senator is addicted to making reckless and false charges against others which he never substantiates. An honest man is always chary in charging others with dishonesty; the thief often cries 'Stop, thief!' He is an ambitious boss and habitual disturber of the political peace and harmony of South Carolina."

Senator McLaurin closes as follows: "Fellow-citizens, there will never be anything like unity or quietude among our people until he is relegated to private life. His incendiary appeals to class hatred and prejudice, such as he made at Gaffney to factory operatives, and his dictatorial spirit and utterances will keep up dissensions and discord in the state. With the aid of the people, I will make a heroic effort to break down bossism with its train of political evils, and I invite all good citizens to assist me to inaugurate an era of free thought, free speech and independence of action in South Carolina. The senior senator, in the quietude of a farmer's life in Edgemoor county, could be viewed as a pitchforked pigmy, and a blessing to the state."

Philadelphia, May 31.—The new battleship Maine was successfully launched at the Cramps yards in the presence of a great multitude. Between the new Maine and the old are few points of resemblance. The principal dimensions of the new battleship are: Length between perpendiculars, 338 feet; length over all, 393 feet 10 1/2 inches; extreme breadth, 72 feet; mean draught, 23 feet 6 inches; displacement at normal draught, 12,360 tons; estimated displacement at full load draught, 13,500 tons. BOOMERS

Struggling Over Mountains of Tennessee

To Reach the Newly Discovered Oil Fields That Promise to Eclipse Those of Beaumont.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 31.—Boomers are struggling in great numbers over rough mountain roads to the new oil fields on the celebrated Cumberland plateau. Green oil of better quality than comes from Beaumont wells have been discovered in Scott, Pen-Tennessee; White and Cliffe counties, middle Tennessee; and Wayne and Whitely counties, Kentucky. Yield varies from 50 to 400 barrels a day.

The immigration into the Sunny Brook fields has developed into a rush equal to that to Indian lands thrown open to the public. Inquiries from capitalists in all parts of the country are keeping the mails weighed down. Cincinnati and St. Louis parties are unusually interested in the development of this oil field.

During her husband's absence, Mrs. Bullard was insulted by Grohans and she fled to the protection of friends. Becoming alarmed over the possible consequences of his action, Grohans secured a shot gun and blew out his brains.

CUBA

The Subject at the Conference

In Washington

Between the President and Advisers.

Several Very Knotty Problems Still Remains to be Solved.

President Must Determine Whether the Platt Amendment was Substantially Adopted by the Cubans.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Root, Senator Spooner of Wisconsin and Senator O. H. Platt, chairman of the senate committee on Cuban relations, had a conference of some length with the president regarding Cuba.

Secretary Root has been fully advised by Governor General Wood regarding the progress of events in Cuba and has been informed of the action of the convention in its successive stages, together with the final action of the convention in adopting the Platt amendment and the interpretation placed upon it by the convention, as well as the interpretation of the interviews between the Cuban commissioners and the president and secretary of war. He would thus be able to inform the president fully of the definite results in the convention in adopting the Platt amendment as amended or interpreted by the delegates. The president and his advisers will determine whether the Platt amendment has been "substantially" adopted by the convention. This is preliminary to the withdrawal of the United States authority and forces from Cuba. If it should be found that the interpretation of the convention is not satisfactory to the administration, quite a difficult problem would arise, as it seems to be the intention of the Cubans to proceed to form a government, and that government must be recognized or rejected by the president, who has full power to determine whether the act of congress has been complied with by the convention.

Another problem which has been discussed by those interested in Cuban affairs relates to what would follow should the new Cuban government be recognized. The Cuban government, it is asserted, will be for some time without the machinery to execute its own laws and put in operation its own edicts. It is held by some lawyers that the moment the Cuban government is recognized the authority of the United States ceases, and there is some question as to who would be responsible for the preservation of law and order.

As the new government would have no troops and no police force and would be practically powerless should there be any opposition to its decrees and orders, the question whether the United States forces would be warranted in upholding the government, in executing its orders, has been raised; also whether the president of the United States would be authorized as commander-in-chief of the army to give orders to our troops further than their recall from foreign territory.

CURES RHEUMATISM OF THE JOINTS

Severe work, followed by prolonged rest in a damp room, insufficient clothing, exposure to draughts, and being in cold regions, often brings on Rheumatism of the joints. Athlo-phos by its strengthening and purifying powers enables the system to throw off the uric acid poison, and thus cures the disease.

PROVERBIAL. I had the Rheumatism in my left knee so bad that I could not bend it. I could hardly walk on it. I took Athlo-phos four months, and in 24 hours I could bend it and walk on it all right. The pain left in a few hours. Yours respectfully, GEORGE WILSON.

Denmark started the last century as the poorest country, per head, of population, in Europe; it ended as one of the richest. And has to thank the land system and the dairy system for the fact.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man with a torpid liver and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has headache and sometimes dizziness. A few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will restore his liver to its normal functions, renew his vitality, improve his digestion and make him feel like a new man. Price, 25 cents. Sample free at Wm. M. Meville's drug store, old post office corner.

Playing For Keeps.
I have observed in the larger game of marbles which we call "making a living" that most of the boys are "playing for keeps" and only a few for fun and that those who are playing for keeps are the boys with the most influence and standing in the community. I know a whole lot of boys, some of them living in Massachusetts today, who are playing for keeps, but instead of marbles they are using wheat or corn or railroad stocks. No one of them knows just whom he is playing against, but each knows that for each dollar he wins a dollar is lost by some one else.

Nevertheless I am old fogey enough to say that for myself I do not regret my early training, nor am I ready to leave behind its principles, but as long as the majority of parents wish their boys to be successful it seems to me you ought to make it clear that playing marbles for keeps is an excellent way of drilling boys in that acquisitiveness which will make it possible for them in after years to provide their wives and daughters with silk dresses, opera cloaks and automobiles.—Springfield Republican.

Many people are seemingly well during the week, but afflicted with all manner of ailments when Sunday comes around, and on Monday they are all well again. I really dread the approach of the Lord's day, for with the day there come to many of my flock colds, sick headaches, pain in the side and nausea, while numbers complain of "that lumbago feeling."

Sunday before last I spent really an anxious day, for there happened to be absent from the services quite a number, for the best of reasons, of course—a rushing in the head, a touch of colic, cramps, toothache, hardness of hearing, catarrh, inflamed liver, indigestion of the membranes, lumbago, and, worse than all, "that dread feeling."

Then, what greatly distressed me the next day was that Mrs. Henry Van Barscom had issued invitations to an "at home" for that evening, and the fear well nigh paralyzed me that but few would respond, seeing many of her invited guests had been absent from the Sabbath services. Imagine, then, if you can, my profound surprise to see on that Monday evening so wholly unexpected, so general and complete a recovery, and when I made inquiry concerning the Sabbath ailments only two were able to recall what had really been the matter with them the day before.—A Minister in Christian Intelligence.

It is proposed to hold a South American exhibition in London next year.

The canal fever is apparently spreading, for a bill has been introduced in the Florida legislature providing for the incorporation of the Florida ship canal company "to locate, construct, own and operate a ship canal across the peninsula of Florida to connect the Atlantic ocean with the gulf of Mexico." The proposed company is to have a capital stock of $100,000,000. The route it desires to pursue as set forth in the bill, is from a point on Biscayne bay, just south of Miami on the Atlantic side, through the coastlines of Dade and Lee to a point between Deadman's bay and Cape Roman, on the gulf side. Such a canal would be less than one hundred miles long, but it would shorten the route of vessels plying between Atlantic and gulf ports more than two hundred and fifty miles, and, besides, would avert the perils of the Florida keys. The canal would pass through a region filled with lakes and rivers, and its construction would not be very difficult from a physical point of view. Its importance would of course be greatly increased by the construction of the isthmian canal.

The decision of the supreme court of the United States that the tariff provisions of the Foraker act are constitutional stands on the narrow ground that the provision prescribing that duties and taxes shall be uniform "throughout the United States" applies only to the states, and not to the territories. This is sticking very closely to the bark; but although the minority of the court, holding to the opinions of Chief Justice Marshall, has exposed the weakness of the argument, the decision will stand until reversed. Justice Brown and the justices agree with him have come to the conclusion that in part the constitution extends over the colonies. The minority, on the other hand, held, with Chief Justice Marshall, that the provisions of the constitution, as well as all other provisions are as valid in Porto Rico as in Pennsylvania or in the District of Columbia. It will be strange if the plain common sense of the country shall not come to the conclusion of the minority.—Philadelphia Record.

The fathers taught their children that the people and their constitution constituted the government, and that the men in immediate authority over them were but the servants of the people. A supreme court decision antagonistic to a policy of imperialism might upset the administration but would not upset the government. A decision supporting the administration's policy of imperialism will in truth and in fact upset the government. Not that there will be any disbanding of authority or crumbling of the national structure, but such a decision will upset the government as it was founded by the Washingtons and preserved by the Lincolns. It will upset the government as the American people have understood the government.—Bryan's Commonwealth.

Foraker is being boomed in Washington for president, because he is the author of the measure which imposes a duty on imports from Porto Rico, sustained by the recent ruling of the United States supreme court. The public eye is now looking toward Cleveland to see Mark Hanna hustling to get delegates to the national convention who will support the Cincinnati corporation lawyer who now draws the salary of senator from Ohio.

In response to an inquiry from State School Commissioner Bonebrake,

Attorney General Sheets held that the county commissioners may apportion the debt of a special school district between it and the township district district, when territory has been detached from the special district and added to the township district after the creation of the debt.

Ohio now has 201 banks, and their total deposits, exclusive of the national banks, as ascertained by Auditor of State Guilbert, are now $163,530,055.06 against 133,986,842.84 last year—a gain of $29,543,212.22. Twenty banks have been established during the year, and the bank deposits during the year was unprecedented.

England now has 249,000 soldiers in South Africa. Already 14,978 have died, and 17,209 have been wounded and the trouble is not over yet. Verily, Oom Paul spoke the truth when he said: "We may be conquered, but if so it will be at a cost that will stagger humanity."

The 25th inst. was the 29th anniversary of the landing of Capt. John Smith and his fellowadventurers upon the soil of Virginia, and the foundation of the first permanent white colony in what is now the United States.

The vice president will also take a trip west before long and attend the annual meeting of the Rough Riders in Colorado Springs, June 23 and 25. Teddy will perhaps leave his gun at home this time.

Under the decision of the United States supreme court it is an established fact that the collector will follow the flag even if the constitution does not.

And now the small boy will get ready for the Fourth of July, that being the next national holiday to be observed.

WAS ABLE

To Provide for His Family But Didn't

Declares Mrs. Amanda E. Murray, Who Today Began Suit for Divorce.

Amanda E. Murray was married to Wm. T. Murray at Ada on the 24th of August, 1893, and now, after eight years of wedded life, she comes into the courts of Allen county and asks for a separation on the ground of non support and cruelty. They have one child, she says, aged five years, but her husband failed to provide for them, and she has had to live on a competence furnished by relatives. Mrs. Murray says her husband was well able to provide all of the necessities of life as he is engaged in the undertaking business at Harrod and had a good income. On the 26th of June Mrs. Murray left her husband because as she alleges, he threatened to do her bodily harm, declaring that he would break her neck. The petition describes several lous in Harrod and Beaver Dam that they own, and she the plaintiff, asks that she be given the custody of the child and the property in Beaver Dam, which rightly belongs to her. MAN'S HEAD FOUND.

Probably Belonged to Headless Body Found in April.

St. Louis, May 31.—The head of a man wrapped in an old coat was found near Edgmont Park, East St. Louis, Ill. Some empty envelopes found inside the coat were addressed to F. R. Williams, New York city. The coroner held an inquest over the head and a verdict of suicide was returned. A search of the ground near where the head was discovered brought to light an old rusty razor.

About 100 yards from the spot where the head lay a headless body was found in April and was never identified.

Wilhelmina Visits William.
Potsdam, May 31.—When Queen Wilhelmina and Prince Henry arrived here they were received at the station by the emperor and empress of Germany, who accompanied them to the new palace. The visitors were warmly cheered. The zapfenstich given in honor of Queen Wilhelmina was a most interesting ceremony. The bands played a number of old Netherlands hymns. All the assembled troops presented arms when the hymn called "Wilhelmus Nassau" was rendered. The music concluded with the "honorary march of the Dutch navy." Major John B. Kerr, United States military attaché at Berlin, who has just received news of his promotion to a lieutenant colonel, attended the ceremonies at the special invitation of the emperor.

Brother Against Brother.
Memphis, May 31.—William Wooten was shot to death by his brother, Jesse P. Wooten, on Auction street near Front, in a duel with pistols at close range. Jesse Wooten received two wounds, one in the right shoulder just below the collar bone and the other on top of the head. He is not seriously injured. Jesse fired five shots at his brother and every one of them took effect about the head and body. When he had emptied his pistol his brother lay almost at his feet dying. Jesse made no effort to escape. The tragedy grew out of family troubles, the exact nature of which is not known.

On the next day or two the con-place. The directors of the forward will meet and a general revision of the official list of the Loree was received and it is clear that the election of Loree, now fourth vice presi-

Mr. Cowen will be made chairman of the board of directors of the B. & O. and general counsel for both from Pennsylvania, from Europe a

Mr. Loree taking charge of

RILEY

Won't Have to Use a Fine-toothed Comb

If He is Looking for a Match for Mackey.

His Challenge to Meet Any Bantam
Weight in the Country No Doubt Includes Kid
Boop.

Con Riley, who has had Big Mackey,
the reputed bantam weight of Findlay, under his protecting wing for a year or more, is manifestly elated over Mackey's decisive defeat of Robert Hetch, the North Baltimore lad at Findlay Wednesday night.

Hetch had fifteen pounds the better of it in weight, and started in to finish Mackey in the first round, but the science of the latter enabled him to escape the onslaught and he made a shopping block of Hetch for two rounds. Hetch recovered himself somewhat but was unable to make much of a showing and the decision was awarded to Mackey.

Manager Riley at once issued a sweeping challenge, agreeing to take on for any number of rounds any bantam weight in the world. This brings the matter to a local standpoint and if Riley wasn't talking for effect he can do a little business without going outside of the Lima oil field. Kid Boop has met Mackey twice, but both contests were limited to six rounds and neither had had the better of the fighting. It will take twice six rounds and perhaps more to decide which of the two is the better man, and Boop is ready to meet his Findlay rival at any time or place providing certain conditions that he names are agreed to by Mackey's backers.

"I don't care to make a match for a purse of thirty cents or thereabouts," declared Boop yesterday, "and I am not desirous of decorating myself with iron medals, but if Mackey's admirers want to arrange for a go between us and will make a side bet of $200 or more, I will put my signature to the articles of agreement and go into active training at once."

It is now up to Riley and the sports of Findlay to make good the attitude in which Mackey has been placed, and if the challenge to the world is not all hot air, then something should come of it.

PIONEER

Sam'l Shobe, of Aman-

Found Dead in Bed at an Early Hour Today.

Deceased Had Lived on the Farm Where His Death Occurred for Half a Century—Funeral Sunday.

Samuel Shobe, one of the best known pioneer citizens of Amanda township, was found dead in his bed at his home eight miles west of this city, at an early hour this morning. The deceased had been in declining health, due chiefly to his advanced age, for some time but his condition was not considered serious. The immediate cause of his sudden death was heart disease.

Mr. Shobe was born in Ross county, Ohio, on April 6, 1822 and lived to the age of 79 years, 1 month and 25 days.
He lived for about fifty years on the farm where his death occurred last night.

The deceased is survived by his wife, five sons and four daughters.
The funeral services will be held at the M. E. church in Allentown, at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

THE NEW U. S. MINT.

UNCLE SAM'S BIGGEST COIN FACTORY SOON TO BE OPEN.

Located at Philadelphia and is the best equipped money making establishment in the world—Some interesting facts concerning it.

(Special Correspondence.)
PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—If the question were asked of a thousand persons which was the first public building erected by the United States government, probably not more than two or three could answer correctly. It was the old Philadelphia mint and was for many years the sole and only money factory of Uncle Sam. It may interest some of the many thousands of people yet living who visited the old mint when it was turning out our dollars to know it still stands today, though, alas, it was long ago converted to trade and bazaar uses. Over a century ago it was built under Washington's eye, in 1792, and the first official coins of the young republic were issued in October of that year. How much gold and silver coin it turned out there may or may not be a record to show, but it must have been well up into the millions. After a period of 50 years the building was found to be too small for the demands made upon it, and a second and much larger one was erected, and now, after a lapse of another half century, the Quaker City is to have its third mint and the largest building of its kind in America.

MAIN PORTAL OF NEW PHILADELPHIA MINT.

The new mint is on Spring Garden street and is a magnificent edifice, occupying and beautifying an entire block. It cost about $2,000,000. This includes the mechanical equipment, which cost $200,000. The dimensions of the building are 500 feet in length and 300 feet wide and is three stories high in front and two in rear.

As to the interior of the new mint, Uncle Sam won't have to lie awake nights worrying about the safety of his dollars, as they are as secure as if they were at the bottom of the Atlantic. The main storage vaults are of massive steel and concrete and occupy a space of 308 by 52 feet on the basement floor, with a height of 20 feet. The entrance is through a guardroom, and all persons going out of there have to undergo a strict examination. The silver dollar vault is the largest one in the world, with doors of beautiful mechanism bearing exquisite engravings, and the most skillful burglar could work at it for weeks and then only have his trouble for his pains. Without the use of a powerful explosive it would be impossible for any human being to force an entrance.

The system of locking the doors of the vault is a triple arrangement, including combination and time locks, and were you to open the combination it would be impossible to enter until the time lock released the bolts. Some time ago 60,000,000 silver dollars were taken out of the old mint and placed in this vault. It was a task indeed to move this enormous sum, and it took weeks to complete the work. The money had to be counted, weighed, put into canvas bags and sealed and marked with the name of the workman and then placed in a wooden box and nailed down and stenciled. A watchman's room has been built just outside of the vault, where sharp eyes watch the treasure. Three times in every 24 hours the guard is changed. Quite an elaborate system of reporting is carried on by the men on duty. Every hour the guard of the vault has to ring up the nearest district police station, with which his room is connected, and report the condition of affairs. If at the end of the week, when the reports are carefully looked over, any suspicious circumstances are noted the authorities can put their hand on the person wanted. The gold and subsidiary coin vault is 112 feet long.

The money making establishment of the new mint is the finest and most complete of its kind in the world, with all the latest mechanism for the transformation of gold and silver bullion into the dollars and eagles of Uncle Sam. It will be possible for the public to get a view of most of the operations from the galleries built mostly for that purpose. One of the sights of the mint is the museum devoted to the collection of rare foreign coins and of specimens of the productions of the several other mints of the United States. A domed ceiling, mosaic floor and marble fountains make the museum a handsome apartment, and its coin collection is considered by numismatists to be the finest and most complete in the country.

With its granite and marble front, parapeted balcony and ornate cornices Philadelphia has in Uncle Sam's new mint a structure that any city might well be proud of.

WILLIAM P. HASTINGS.

THE RISING SUN LAND.

Ambition and Wonderful Progress of the Japanese People.

(Special Correspondence.)
YOKOHAMA, May 25.—Superior military and naval discipline enabled the Japs to move like an avalanche upon the howling, running mob of yellow soldiers in the war between China and Japan. Ever since through her agency they were deprived of Korea as the legitimate fruits of their conquest in that war the Japs have "had it in" for Russia. They hate her as the French hate Germany. They have been preparing for a tussle with Russia from that day to this. A feverish activity has pervaded the construction department of the Jap navy for half a dozen years. As the enemy of Russia, Japan became the friend of China so soon as she had given her a whipping. She encouraged China likewise to modernize herself for war.

A time soon to come may see Japan and China linked as sworn allies against their mutual foe, Russia. With the fighting Japs to lead them, the Chinese probably will not run howling when it comes to defending their territory against the Russian. The integrity of China in a way guarantees the safety of Japan.

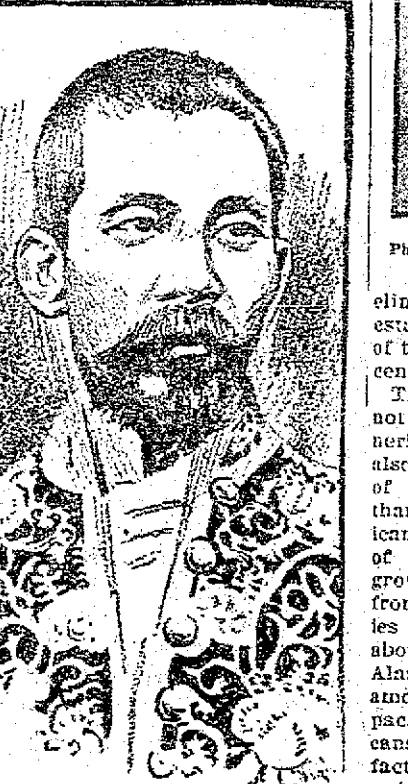

In the light which seems sure to come later if not sooner between Russia and Japan the island empire comes upon the having of England, moral or otherwise. England is aware of this.

"I'm afraid these reckless little bandits will get as into trouble with Russia. They will rush into a war with her and expect us to help them out," an Englishman in the Orient.

Even now Japan and China united under the leadership of Japan would be a match for Russia and would severely need the support of England. Patriotism is a sentiment unknown in the Orient except among the Japanese, but these possess it to overflowing. They are steeped in it to the lips.

They love their country as in the days of the American Revolution William Hale and Washington and Nathan and Van West loved the republic that was to be. No American who had been a member of the president's cabinet would afterward be willing to serve as a plain, common congressional representative, yet Mr. Inukai, the Japanese statesman whose portrait here appears, is doing that very thing at present. He was formerly one of the emperor's ministers. He is now a member of the Japanese house of commons, working for the advancement and glory of the empire as he can.

Few western nations are aware of Japan's immense strides in the commercial marine service in the past ten years. Today as a sea transportation corporation the Nippon Yusen Kaisha (Japanese Mail Company) stands at the head of merchant marine fleets. The company owns 80 steamships, and the flag with the blood red globe upon a white field is seen in every port of the old world and in San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver in the new. The longest steamer line on the globe is one covered by Nippon Yusen Kaisha vessels, beginning at Yokohama and ending at Antwerp. The steamers touch at Hongkong, Singapore, Penang and Colombo, then cross the Indian ocean and pass the Suez canal, stopping at Marseilles on the way to London and Antwerp. The flag of Japan is seen in the world's commerce ten times as often as that of the United States, for Japan, the country of islands, must, like England, achieve greatness on the sea.

The transactions of Japanese business men are, however, marred by one lingering trace of orientalism which makes it difficult for white merchants to deal with them on the square trade principles of the western world. It is almost impossible thus far to convince a Japanese business man that when once he makes a contract he must stick to it, even at temporary loss to himself. He cannot understand why for a moment he should accept a price he has agreed to take for goods when there is a prospect of getting more. Neither can he understand why he should not, according to the custom of the orientals, ask ten times as much for an article as he is willing to sell it for. In consequence Jap merchants have somewhat a name for unreliability. But they will learn better.

The battleflag of this wonderful people is a blood red sun with crimson rays streaming out around it in all directions. Their national emblem is a rising sun, and fittingly, Japan is the rising sun of the Orient.

ROBERT MCRAE.

A TRUST IN SALMON.

PACIFIC COAST AND ALASKA CANNERIES TO BE CONSOLIDATED.

Greatest Extent of the Industry Not Known or Realized by Most Americans—The Columbia the Most Productive River on Earth.

The Columbia, our great northwest river, where our finest food fish, the salmon, is taken, and Alaska, also the home of the salmon, are attracting the attention of big capitalists. A $30,000,000 syndicate, composed mainly of eastern men, is planning to get hold of all or most of the salmon fisheries and canneries of the Pacific coast in order to control the production of the famed product.

The principal stockholders in the new syndicate are said to be the well known financiers J. Pierpont Morgan, August Belmont, the Seligman and the heads of several of the largest banking houses of New York. Arrangements have long been making looking to the securing of options on a large majority of the canning plants, and it is expected that the syndicate will be able to control almost the entire salmon industry.

The principal corporation that will be absorbed in the trust is the Pacific American Fisheries company, which at present controls a majority of the fisheries industry on Puget sound. This company was formed in 1880, with a capital stock of $5,000,000. It has at Fairhaven, Wash., the largest cannery in the world, occupying an area of 28 acres. This one company has a capacity of handling 10,000 cases a day. As one case of salmon is easily enough to supply a good sized family for a year and as this company is, although the largest, only one of those engaged in the salmon industry, some idea of the value of the product and of the size of the proposed combination may be gained.

Should the promoters of the syndicate succeed in buying up most of the independent shippers and packers of the fish this will be one of the largest commercial deals ever made on the Pacific coast. It will of course mean the elimination of a number of the smaller establishments and the concentration of the industry in a few hands at a few central points.

The syndicate will probably control not alone the salmon fisheries and canneries in the northwestern states, but also those in Alaska. These latter are of still greater importance and size than those of the former. Most Americans do not know or realize the extent of the great fish business that has grown up in the territory acquired from Russia. While the salmon fisheries in the northwestern states yield about 600,000 cases a year, those of Alaska send forth fully double that amount. In 1898 the Alaska salmon pack amounted to about 44,000,000 cans, which required for their manufacture 160,000 boxes of tin plate, weighing 10,000,000 pounds and costing $400,000. American tin is largely used for the salmon intended for home consumption, but imported tin is required for the superior export goods. In 1898 our exports of canned salmon amounted to $2,906,475.

Most of the work of preparing the fish for canning in the Alaskan and northwestern canneries is done by means of wonderful labor saving machinery, but naturally the opening and cleaning of the fish are done by hand. In this work are employed many of the Indians of Washington and Oregon, and Alaska. The companies operating the fisheries also employ the Indians for hauling their nets, for which work they are especially adapted by heredity, although they are by no means fond of the hard labor involved.

Official statistics collected a few years ago show that up to that time 763,253,443 pounds of salmon had been utilized in the canneries on the Columbia river. That enormous amount has of course been greatly increased since then, but it is itself an inconceivably large total. This is besides the quantities of salmon shipped fresh to other sections of the country, salted or eaten locally. The total amount of salmon taken out of the Columbia river since its exploitation by white men will probably exceed 1,000,000,000 pounds, with a value of about $100,000,000. This record is unsurpassed by any other stream on earth.

One of the strangest botanical plants in the world is the "Wonder-Wonder" flower found in the Malay Peninsula. It is simply a blossom, with leaves, vine or stem, and grows as a parasite on decayed wood. This extraordinary flower is something like a yard in diameter and has a globular cup in the middle with a capacity of five or six quarts.

In Rhenish Prussia a physician has been pursuing a lucrative trade in giving drugs to young men, the purpose being to incapacitate them for army service. His applicants for this sort of treatment are from all parts of the country. The young men who seek his services are, of course, averse to serving their time as soldiers, which they would have to do unless found physically incapacitated.

Mr. W. S. Wheldon, cashier of the First National Bank of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other merchants. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale by all druggists.

WIFE

Came to This City
To Investigate.

Only a Letter

Was Sent to Her Husband
at Ft. Wayne

But She Found the Other Woman and a Little Heart to Heart Talk

Brought the Two Women to an Understanding and the Braving Husband Will be Probably be Good Now.

Last evening an aged man and a woman who gave her name as Mrs. Swope arrived in the city from Ft. Wayne, Ind., and applied at the police station for information concerning a woman who had signed her name to a letter as Carrie Wilson and had given her address as 309 north Central avenue. The address was sufficient to easily locate the woman and in a short time sergeant Caddy had the two women in an interesting conversation in which the subject of discussion was the Ft. Wayne woman's husband.

According to the story told to the police the Ft. Wayne woman had received a letter addressed to her husband and upon opening it she found it to be from the Wilson woman who took that means of informing Mr. Swope that she had moved from her former residence to the Central avenue address and wondering why the Lima woman should write to her husband, Mrs. Swope, accompanied by a relative came here to investigate. It did not take long to discover the secret after the two women met, for the Wilson woman confessed that she and Mr. Swope had been quite friendly for some time but claimed that she had been told that Mrs. Swope had been dead for two years. She assured the astonished wife that she Would Write No More letters and would not have written the first one had she not supposed that Mr. Swope was a widower.

Contrary to the usual rule there was no hair pulling and the affair was very quietly and apparently satisfactorily adjusted—at least at this end of the road. What occurred when Mrs. Swope and her husband "swopped" started at Ft. Wayne, can best be told by the latter.

The Exercises at the Opera House Yesterday Afternoon Pleased an Audience Which Packed
the Big Auditorium.

Many people were turned away from the opera house yesterday afternoon, every seat, both down stairs and in the balcony being occupied long before the hour set for the exercises of memorial day. It was a sensible change from the original plan and the old veterans who were comfortably seated and shielded from the exposure enjoyed all the more the excellent music and the eloquent address of Judge Davies, of Sidney.

Previous to the introductory remarks by Dr. Hall, several stirring tunes, the glad airs that sent the patriotic blood of the soldier coursing rapidly through their veins on the field of battle, were rendered by the corps with fife and drums, and the veterans applauded no number on the program more heartily. The music is a fixture in the mind of the soldier and the tunes will never grow old.

After a beautiful and touching prayer by Rev. Leatherman, the first number by the choir, under the direction of Thos. O. Peate, was sung and several times during the afternoon the audience was permitted to enjoy selections that were appropriate to the occasion and rendered in a manner that merited the applause which followed.

At a signal from Commander R. E. Davis, Mart Armstrong Post stood to hear the orders read by Adjutant W. W. Lowe, which included the address to the soldiers by the commander in chief, setting aside a day in memory of the dead comrades.

One of the prettiest features of the program was the drill by the eighteen little girls, who were trained by Miss Myrtle Berryman. They were dressed in white and in their marching went through a number of difficult figures with the skill of trained soldiers. The conclusion of the drill was the strewing of flowers at the base of the large monument erected in the middle of the stage.

The announcement of Miss Lena Sanford's disability and the necessity therefore of omitting her eulogatory effort, "Lincoln's Gettysburg speech," was manifest disappointment, but with that one exception, the program was carried out as published.

The memorial address, delivered by Judge W. D. Davies, of Sidney, was a brilliant one, and teemed with eloquent eulogies for those who, individually and collectively put the stamp of freedom on every foot of soil over which waves the stars and stripes. His touching tribute to the wives, mothers and daughters struck a tender chord, and frequently during his address Judge Davies was compelled to await for the silence following the applause which punctuated his brilliant utterances.

The events of the day concluded with a camp fire at the Congregational church in the evening which was largely attended. A program which pleased everybody, and especially the old soldiers, was rendered as follows:

a. The New Star Spangled Banner.

b. Exalted Heroes.

Prayer—Comrade Thomas H. Jones.

RELATIVES

Of Singlinger Come from Kenton

To Attend the Trial in Duffield's Court.

A Number of Witnesses Subpoenaed to Support the Demand of Proprietor Riley of the Atlantic House.

Justice Duffield's court was the scene of a gathering of quite a knot of people this morning, who were drawn there mostly as witnesses in the case of the state against Louis Singlinger, the Kenton man who created a rough house at the Atlantic hotel.

Singlinger was brought over from jail at 9:30 and his face still bore the traces of the finishing blows delivered by John Riley, one of the proprietors. The defendant asked for a postponement of the hearing until the arrival of his attorney and several parties who sent word that they would arrive on the first train from Kenton. The court granted the request and a half hour later attorney Howard Williamson held a consultation with Singlinger. In the meantime the Kenton parties arrived, including several women, but the case had finally to go over because of the inability of J. C. Rideout, to be present.

The latter arranged with attorney Kilgore to take the case and the witnesses again assembled at one o'clock this afternoon when the trial proceeded.

The early part of the proceedings brought forth the witnesses who had either seen or heard the actions or threats of Singlinger against Mr. Riley and several of the bystanders who were in front of the Atlantic house at the time testified that the defendant told Riley he would get him if he had to lay for him at night. Dan McSweeney told of seeing Singlinger pick up a stone and cross the street toward the Atlantic, but he succeeded in getting him to throw it away before any damage was done. There are a number of witnesses to be heard and the case will hardly be concluded today.

FILIPINO

Called for a Passport for a European Tour.

"If I am Not an American Citizen,
What am I?" He Asked,
When Refused.

London, May 31.—Ambassador Choate ran against a funny complication today. Felix Versosa, a Filipino, called to get a passport for a European tour. Choate said he had no power to grant a passport to a Filipino. Versosa then said, "If I am not an American citizen, what am I?" Choate gave it up finally and issued the passport that will be good if the administration does not turn it down.

A WESTERN HOLD-UP REVIVED

How a Reno Gambling-House and All Its Players Were Successfully Held Up By One Nervy Robber.

The billboards of this city contain a picture just now that is attracting much attention. It is of mammoth size and represents a highwayman, in typical Western garb, with a mask over his eyes and a large revolver in his hand, holding up every passerby. The real merit of the picture is more thoroughly appreciated when the spectator changes his position and views it from another side. No matter where he goes the highwayman has a bead on him, the piercing eyes and the gun follows his every move, whether right or left, up or down, from the house-top over the way or in the cellar under the poster.

The picture embellishes a poster advertising the well-known GOLD DUST Washing Powder, and has a peculiar history. About ten years ago a masked highwayman robbed several gambling houses in the West. At Reno he held up a faro bank, located in a hotel near the depot, in the very heart of the city. The proprietor, the players, and most of those who were merely looking on the game, were armed; and known as "bad men" who would shoot and fight at the drop of the hat. The robber, however, "had the drop," and got away with all the money in the place. A few days later a suspect was arrested and a big revolver and several thousand dollars in greenbacks, coin and gold dust were found on him. At the trial the witnesses identified him, and each of them swore that the robber was watching him all the time and had him covered with his gun. The prisoner's lawyer showed that the victims were scattered all over the room, and asked the judge to have the case dismissed because no man could cover so many different people at the same time.

In a letter received by a Milwaukee paper from a woman applying for a position as society correspondent from Waupaa, these lines are noted: "This being the seat of the state penitentiary, we often have items of interest to people throughout the state."
